SEASON'S GREETINGS FROM ROBINSON NURSERY

It is the Tuesday before Thanksgiving as I write this.

The field crew are out digging trees today. It is amazing that we are over half way done in November. This could be our first year to hit the dream goal of being done by Christmas. Good digging weather is always helpful to plant grade out and we continue to come up with a few extra plants. The container crew is scrambling to get the can yard winterized. Weatherman was predicting low 20's for this week but thankfully 28 is about as cold as we have seen. The 2015 growing season was hotter than normal and we have one of the best crop of trees I can remember.

Sales are strong and 2016 should be another good year. Thank you for allowing us to be your supplier for trees and shrubs.

I am looking forward to Thanksgiving with the whole family coming over. It is always great time of fellowship and eating way too much. As a family we always have a "what are we thankful for time." Here at the nursery we are thankful for our two sons who continue to excel in their duties and the many great employees that work here.

They have allowed us to grow quality products and deliver customer service. We are also thankful for a great bunch of customers who have stood by us. Much of our success is from our customers input on how to grow a better tree. On the personal side we are thankful that we have our health and a great family. We have four kids and four grandkids with another one on the way. Josh is having a boy. We also get to work in an occupation that we love.

I would challenge you to ask the same question when you are around family...What are you thankful for?

It won't be long and Christmas will be here. This is my favorite time of the year. It will mean another whole family get together on Christmas Eve with lots of laughs and maybe some tears as the grandkids have too much fun. A number of years back we decided to do a gift exchange. At Thanksgiving we pick names out of a hat and everyone has someone to get a Christmas present for. We go to church on Christmas Eve then come home, have a feast, and open presents. We celebrate God's ultimate gift to us, a newborn baby in a manger who would grow up to be the Savior of this world.

Christmas is a good time to reflect on God's goodness to us.

Hope you will join us in thanksgiving.

Rick
